New York City College of Technology

TRANSCRIPT LEGEND

THE COLLEGE

New York City College of Technology has been a pioneer in urban technology since its inception in 1946 as the New York State Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences. In 1964, the college became part of the City University of New York and was named New York City Community College. The ninety-year-old Voorhees Technical Institute was incorporated into the college in 1971. The school was designated as the senior-level technical college of the City University in 1980 and was renamed New York City Technical College (City Tech). In 2002, the college was renamed New York City College of Technology.

ACCREDITATION

New York City College of Technology offers certificates, associates and baccalaureate degrees. The college is a fully accredited member of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools and has been authorized by the New York State Board of Regents to offer its graduates the degree of associate in arts, associate in science, associate in applied science, bachelor of technology and the bachelor of science. The college's courses of instruction are registered by the New York State Education Department. Many of City Tech's programs are accredited by Professional accreditation boards in their areas.
